BARNES SUIT ROW ON COSTS

By International News Service.
SYRACUSE, N. Y., May 21.—A verdict in favor of Colonel Theodore Roosevelt was returned by the jury today in the $50,000 libel suit brought against the ex-President by William Barnes, republican leader of Albany County, but Justice Andrews held that the form of the verdict was improper and sent the jury back to reach a proper verdict.
At 12:31 court recessed until 2 o'clock, and the jurors were informed that if in the meantime they agreed on a final verdict they could not report until that hour.
When the jury entered court Foreman Zull announced that the twelve men had found for Colonel Roosevelt and asked that the court divide the costs between the defendant and plaintiff.
The jury was then polled. It was found that eleven were for Colonel Roosevelt, but the 12th juror, Edward Burns, a Syracuse motorman, rose in his seat and said he favored Barnes.

Allies Silence Turkish Forts

ATHENS, May 21.—All the Turkish forts on the Asiatic side of the Dardanelles have been destroyed, says a dispatch from Mytilene today. Several of the European forts are still holding out, however, adds the dispatch. The allies are advancing on Gallipoli peninsula, supported by the Anglo-French fleet. The town of the battleship Queen Elizabeth, the column was attacked near Kilitbachi by Turkey, supported by the cruiser Goben, which was firing from the sea of Marmora, but drove them back and took 100 prisoners.
It is reported that the town of Malde on Gallipoli peninsula has been captured by the allies. The town of Dardanelles has been destroyed by the Anglo-French fleet's bombardment, and a large part of the town of Gallipoli has been wrecked by bombs dropped by the allies' aviators.

LAW TELLS OF BRITISH MISTAKES

By International News Service.
LONDON, May 21.—A. Bonar Law, leader of the Conservatives and of the Unionist party, who is slated for a high office in the new coalition ministry, probably succeeding Lloyd-George as Chancellor of the Exchequer, in an interview with the International News Service correspondent, was asked:
"What do you think has been the government's greatest mistake?"
"In my judgment," he said, "the greatest mistake the government has made has been its apparent failure to organize until treaty the business emergency of the nation."
"Until the appointment of a missions committee, the business man was left in the cold, and only now do we appear to be doing that which France did at the very beginning of the war. It is plain

ITALIAN FLEET IN FIRST MOVE

By Brixton D'Alaire.
ROME, May 21.—Italy has struck the first blow at Austria through her fleet, according to a news agency dispatch which says that the Italian warships which have been patrolling the Albanian coast have "entered" the Austrian Port of Cattaro, Dalmatia, on the Adriatic Sea.
The dispatch gave no details as to whether or not Cattaro had been bombarded. The forts guarding Cattaro have been shelled several times during the war by French warships.
A formal declaration by Italy of war with Austria is expected momentarily. The Cabinet met today to take action under the war power granted it by Parliament.

Venice dispatches say that Austrian troops today fired upon Italians who had started a demonstration at Zara, the capital of Dalmatia, and had destroyed Austrian flags. Several persons were killed and many wounded.
The Italian Senate today ratified the action of the Chamber of Deputies in conferring full war powers upon the cabinet.

Throughout the morning there were persistent rumors that a war council had been called.
Pope Benedict XV. today decided to appropriate 1,000,000 lire, approximately $195,000, for the benefit of Italian victims of the war. The money will be contributed from the Vatican funds.

King Victor Emmanuel has signed a decree suspending diplomatic immunity for the Austro-German ambassadors at the Vatican. They will leave Rome tomorrow.

Fortunes have been made through taking advantage of such bargains as these. Nearly always there are good reasons why owners want to sell—sickness, lack of capital, or one of many other reasons.
There is a big future in store for some of those who take advantage of these business opportunities—if the right care is given. Don't let some one else get in ahead of you. Be among the first to answer the ad that appeals to you.

Committee Is Against Mayor's Sewer Budget

The Committee on Appropriations of the City Council today voted 2 to 1 against the Mayor's ten-item segregated sewer budget of $1,000,000. The Finance Committee, however, supported the Mayor. Ballantine, Coleman and Aldridge opposed him.
The controversy over the sewer budget is a lengthy one. The original report called for a lump appropriation of $1,000,000. The Finance Committee suggested a segregation into 227 items. Mayor Curley said this was "segregation gone mad" and suggested ten items. The City Council then offered a 14-item budget. The Mayor stuck out for ten items and said nothing was done by Saturday might be would stop all contract and catch basin work in the department and notify employees that they couldn't get any money till the Council acted. The committee action today leaves the matter deadlocked.

GERMAN VICTORY ON THE NIEMEN

By FREDERICK WERNER.
Special Correspondent of the International News Service.

BERLIN, May 21 (By wireless).—Field Marshal von Hindenburg has won another great victory over the Czar's troops. Today's official report from the German general staff states that the Russians have been defeated in the Niemen River district of Northern Poland and are fleeing to Kovno, the great fortress on the east bank of the Niemen.

In the three weeks of fighting in Galicia, the report also states, General von Mackensen has captured 104,000 prisoners, 72 cannons and 612 machine guns.

Another German success has been won on the Dniester River, a tributary of the Niemen, 1,200 Russian prisoners having been captured.

On the western front of two Polish attacks at Nieve Chapelle and French attacks at Pleva have been repulsed by the Germans. French attacks at Ypres are continuing.

AROUND PRZEMYSL

By International News Service.
PETROGRAD, May 21.—Austro-German troops are maintaining their offensive on the San River around Przemyśl and north of Jaroslavl, but at other points the strength of their attacks diminished, according to latest reports received by the War Office.

The Russians have made a number of counter attacks against the German salient thrown across the San between Jaroslavl and Przemyśl, but thus far no decision has been reached in this conflict.

Both Jaroslavl and Sienawa are in the hands of the Germans, the right and left banks of their salient extending respectively from the two towns, both of which have been practically destroyed by artillery fire.

Canada Interns

Mundheim, German manager of the Cement Products Company of Canada, has again been taken into custody under the alien enemy act and will be interned in Fort Hamilton, Kingston. Mundheim's public pro-German utterances led to his arrest.

BOSTON CITIZEN
REGAINS HEALTH

Frank Bean, Who Resides at No. 524 Tremont Street, Can Now Eat and Sleep Fine.

The Liggett's Drug Store, corner of Washington and Avon streets, where Plant Juice, the new health system, is being introduced, has been the scene of a most gratifying activity for the past few days. Many people are expressing their gratitude to thank the Plant Juice man for what his remedy has done for them. The following statement was made by Mr. Frank Bean, who resides at 524 Tremont street, and who is 48 years of age, and has been suffering from indigestion and general weakness for many years. Mr. Bean is well and prominently known in every city of the union, where he has lectured from coast to coast. He stated:

"I have been a chronic sufferer from stomach trouble, which, looking back, I can remember began in my stomach, followed by severe indigestion. The gas pressed under my heart, causing a fluttering sensation and palpitation. I became nervous and realized that it was almost impossible for me to sleep. I was in the hospital for a long time, and I can truthfully say that I can now eat and sleep fine. I no longer suffer from aches or pains, and the gas and indigestion has entirely disappeared. I consider Plant Juice the best remedy I have ever used."

Many of the following symptoms may denote the presence of a diseased stomach. Indigestion, dizziness, coated tongue, sour stomach, gas or bloated feeling after meals, sleeplessness, nervousness, depression in the stomach, flatulence, constipation, loss of appetite, loss of weight, loss of energy, loss of vitality, loss of life in the mouth and on the tongue.

The Plant Juice man is at the Liggett's Drug Store, corner of Washington and Avon streets, where he daily meets the local public and introduces and explains the merits of this remedy.—Advertisement.

Fear Spain May Enlist in War to Aid Kaiser

LONDON, May 21.—The attitude of the Spanish government in regard to the war is causing disquiet here. From the military standpoint Spain's participation in the war of the Balkans would obviously have many unfavorable features for Britain. Alarm is felt because of the apparent friendship of Germany and Austria-Moravia with Italy and France. The geographical situation of Spain would threaten both control of the Mediterranean and an attack on the allies in France from the rear. Moreover, if the coalition were to conquer Austria, the soldier named

Used Cuticura Soap and Oint-

Summit Road, Newport, N. H.—"My little daughter suffered for several months with a bad case of eczema. The trouble began with a little round spot on her cheeks. I thought nothing of it at first till she began to scratch it, and it then would bleed. Soon it grew larger and spread up into her hair. Behind her ears were cracks. She would scratch them and they would bleed. It disfigured her face very badly.

FIGHT IN SENATE TO RECALL BILL ON CENSORSHIP OF FILMS

Senator Hayes of Brooklyn will make a motion in the Senate today for reconsideration of the amended film censorship bill, permitting a majority instead of a unanimous vote on the part of the Mayor, police commissioner and Chief Justice of the Boston Municipal Court in suppressing improper photographs and revoking licenses of theaters that show them.

Senator Hayes made the announcement with a vote of ten to eight in the Senate today. The bill was passed on the 19th.

Unopposed opposition is expected today. There has been a decided change of opinion in the Legislature concerning the censorship bill. It would only require a vote of two in the Senate to defeat the bill.

It was late yesterday afternoon before it came up in the Senate for an amendment. It was held the stage but for a few minutes.

Senator Melane of Fall River moved that the matter be deferred until the next session of the Legislature.

Senator Dean, author of the amended bill, was on feet in an instant to protest. He thought postponement would be unfair. Senator Melane reminded him that certain senators were absent.

Postponement was rejected by a vote of 15 to 12, with two pairs.

REJECT POSTPONEMENT. Yes—Cummings, Eldridge, Fitzgerald, Green, Hays, Hobbs, Jackson, Leonard, Marshall, McNamee, McLean, Newcomb, Parley, Sullivan, Teller, Timothy, Waller.

No—Bartlett, Bartlett, Bates, Hazen, Head, Heath, Cavanaugh, Clark, Ellis, Farnsworth, Fay, Gifford, Goodson, Kings, Langley, Martin, Mason, Tuttle.

Senator Hayes then spoke in support of the bill. He said it was a measure of public safety.

The bill was then passed by a vote of 15 to 12, with two pairs.

The absence of Senator Doyle yesterday was regretted by the opponents of the bill. His vote would have carried up matters, unless President Taft had intervened.

He did on Tuesday. Senator Doyle was one of the staunchest foes of the film amendment when it came from the House to be engrossed.

It was the first to declare on the floor of the Senate that the measure was "bad legislation" which would "take away the colored people's right of free speech."

Senator Green, however, declared that the bill was a measure of public safety.

part of the Legislature and the Republicans in particular to sacrifice public rights for party votes.

"It commits the Republicans to a censorship of the stage utterly at variance with the attitude which the party will assume in the coming campaign against the censorship of business conducted in the country by the Democratic administration in State and Nation."

"We hope, upon reconsideration, there will be enough Republicans in the Senate to stand up for the rights of the people for the principles of the Republican party, and vote against any change in the existing law, unless it be that recommended by the legislative committee."

To pass the censorship bill in its present amended form is to place the Legislature on record as surrendering the rights of the whole people of the Commonwealth to the whim of a small minority who, without restriction of the polls unless their unreasonable demands are granted.

The Republicans will justify themselves at the outset of their campaign against the "new freedom," which is after all only the tyranny of the minority over the majority, if they refuse upon demand a censorship of the sort provided in the amended bill now pending. Nor can they avoid the public into the belief that they are voting cheap politics by so legislating."

OUR DISGRACEFUL STREETS—HOW LONG MUST THEY REMAIN SO?

BOSTON IS TALKING STREETS: DECLARE NOW TIME TO ACT

Boston isn't talking. War any of Boston is no better today than it more.

Or Business.
Boston is talking "Streets," and discussing the subject furiously.
A distinguished visitor to this town a few weeks ago—one of the Commissioners of the District of Columbia, indeed—expressed right out in the open his opinion that on that day and date, the streets of good old Boston were the worst streets in any Big League city in the United States.
He was not assailed.
Everybody who heard him agreed with him.
And the condition of the streets

BOSTON HAS THE WORST STREETS OF ANY CITY IN THE WORLD!

How does that strike you, Mr. and Mrs. Bostonian?
What do we want done about it?
Here we are at the very door of that season when New England becomes the "Playground of the Nation," and Boston the gateway to the playground.
A COMPANY COMING.
A few weeks more and the "feller" will begin pouring in here by hundreds and thousands, to spend a few days in historic Boston before proceeding to lake and mountain or farm.

There is every likelihood that they will find the streets of Boston worse than they were last year, when they were worse than they were the year before that, when they were the year before that.
Company coming, and the streets of Boston are a mess.
Don't tell anybody about it for goodness sake keep it in the family—just private to kink!
Chamber of Commerce, United Improvement Association, Mayor, City Council—everybody—wake up! Begin now, so that at the expiration of a reasonable time, these things are not done in a week or a month or a year—we may pull down the old sign and hold a new one.

BOSTON HAS THE BEST STREETS OF ANY CITY IN THE WORLD!

Today there was more talk on the subject.
Mayor Curley had in President William A. Hancock of the Boston Elevated Railway Company.
The "L" for look-keeping reasons or something, wants to hold on to its proper share of the street duty until a new (Elevated) fiscal year.

begins, with July 1.

The Mayor wants "action." His Honor continues to be touchy on the subject of "Bad Streets," but by and large, there appears to be no disposition on the part of citizens to place all the blame for poor streets on the Mayor.

MUCH DISCUSSED.

The streets of Boston have not gone all to pieces in a week or two, any more than they can be reconstructed in a week or two.

Several gentlemen have now discussed Poor Streets, including:
The District of Columbia Commissioner of Public Works.

Secretary "Bob" Hottelmyer, of the Good Government Association.

Louis K. Rourke, formerly Commissioner of Public Works.

Chairman Professor George F. Swain of the Boston Transit Commission.

Chief Engineer Stewart of the El City Club—tried to crack a joke about it.

"It's Fitz that's doing it," said this joker, referring to a citizen once prominent in the public life of the town. "Fitz is out here every night at 2 or 3 o'clock, flipping up these letters about them to the newspaper, signing himself 'Veritas' Old Suburban' or 'E. P. Unum'."

Nobody smiled, even.

The worst streets in the United States have caused to be a joke.

Mayor Curley today named the four worst streets in Boston.

His Honor's selection for the dissonance are:

Bowdoin.

Summer.

Court.

Society Square.

Mr. Curley declared truthfully that the worst streets in town are those in the neighborhood of recent subway construction for the Elevated Railway Company.

The photographs shown herewith were taken in Court street by an AMERICAN photographer.

They are hardly necessary for the illumination of comment on the situation about street conditions.

Business men declare that the time has come when Boston must tackle the Street problem in a big way, a way worthy of the city.

Louis K. Rourke, before he quitted his freight from City Hall a while back at the expiration of his term of service as Commissioner of Public Works, called attention to the fact that the comparatively little city of Bridgeport, Ct., recently appropriated $250,000 for the reconstruction of important bridge streets.

More Money? Mr. Rourke said, "then Boston expends for the same purpose in a term of years."

Baltimore, Mr. Rourke further pointed out, will spend $100,000 in five years on the reconstruction of its streets.

Mayor Curley today called attention to the fact that in four years New York has spent $100,000, and Pittsburgh $200,000 in a single year, on Streets.

Boston, the Mayor intimates, hasn't got wonderfully good streets because wonderfully good streets cost wonderfully large sums of money, and Boston is without the large sums of money to use for this purpose.

The tax rate of Boston, Mr. Curley pointed a reporter for the AMERICAN, is $17.50 on one thousand dollars.

The AVERAGE tax rate of all the cities of Massachusetts is $4.75 more than this, or $22.25.

There are 24 miles of street in Boston.

To care for them Mayor

Curley calls attention to the fact that the total appropriation for the Paving Division is $1,200,000. Salaries and wages take $450,000 of this amount, supplies cost $150,000, and there is left for new work, including sidewalks, only $200,000.

To find out exactly why Boston's streets are the "worst in the world" try to spread $200,000 over 244 miles of streets.

There were some indications today—not many, but some—that everybody has almost talked himself out on the question of "Who Did It?" and that before long the really big gun of the best city in the United States—best for homes, best for business, and best for everything—will get together, develop a program and go to it.

Mr. Curley, in the opinion of those who wish him well, is face to face with the greatest opportunity ever presented to a Mayor of Boston.

The Mayor can build his own monument.

Five years hence the world will

The Father of an Idiot Is Responsible for His Unfortunate Child

Civilization Is Responsible for Its Criminal Children and Should Not Dodge Responsibility

A high police official declares that our prisons are being made "too attractive."

He says: "Crime should be made so terrible, life in prison so horrible, that criminals having once been in the penitentiary would decide to be good."

When a man finds that he is the father of an idiot son, and is responsible for the creation of an unfortunate, malformed being, he does not plan to make idioty so terrible as to frighten children from being idiots. He tries to shoulder his responsibility.

So it should be with civilization represented by police officials, judges and others.

We should realize that the criminal in a great majority of cases is a manufactured article.

Just as drunkenness in the father may cause idioty in the child, WITH ALL THE RESPONSIBILITY UPON THE FATHER,

WHERE THE CRIMINAL IS BORN, now on the newstands.

so poverty, slums, misery and neglect in our great cities breed and manufacture criminals, with all the responsibility upon the city and its "civilization."

We reproduce at the top of this page and in this column four scenes that show the process of manufacturing a criminal. These pictures are taken from Hearst's Magazine—other pictures by Mary Ellen Sigbee showing the criminal, making industry are in the May number.

A mother leaves her machine in the sweatshop for a few hours to give birth to her child. It is born in a dark, sunless room under miserable conditions.

The mother, half starved and overworked, cannot nurse it. Impure milk, impure air are the beginning of the criminal manufacturing process.

Then comes the nursery of the infant, next to the swill barrel in the gutter.

Then the two scenes at the top of this page, the little boy's playground, with just room enough between the curbstone and the passing truck to learn the sport of gambling. And the next step in the criminal manufacturing process shown is the whiskey saloon, which is the boy's "club" before he is out of his teens.

When you go to the big steel mill at Gary, Indiana, they show you first a boatload of rough iron ore. You follow the ore through various processes, you see it red hot, then as a lump of metal with out shape, then going through the rolling mill and coming out at the other end a finished rail.

In the great city they can show you the same number of stages in the process of manufacturing a criminal. You see first the child, with every possibility of usefulness and happy life.

Then you see it in the gutter, in the saloon, on the park bench, driven by hunger, weakened by temptation. And at last you see the finished product of society in the penitentiary, which is the finishing school where the last touches are put upon the criminal.

The police official says that the prisons are made too attractive; they should be made so horrible as to induce the criminal to be good in order to keep out of jail.

Civilization has no more right to be cruel to the criminal than it has CREATED that has a man the right to be cruel to the idiot child that he has created.

And as a mere matter of self-protection, civilization should try to make of its prisons a reforming influence, and not a finishing school of crime.

Government used to hang a man for stealing an object worth a few shillings. There was more stealing then than there is now.

Government used to take the miserable insane put them in rooms cells on damp straw, chain them to the floor, beat them with clubs and pour cold water upon them. That did not diminish insanity. You cannot, Mr. Police Official, diminish crime by making prisons horrible, any more than you could diminish insanity by making the insane asylums horrible.

You can diminish crime first by realizing, as the articles in Hearst's Magazine make you realize, that civilization manufactures the criminal in its slums.

You can diminish crime by inspiring in the unfortunate criminal respect for law, confidence in human kindness and the good intention of government.

For thousands of years the effort was made to reform men with clubs, and torture, and starvation. They failed.

It is high time to try, in prison and elsewhere, KINDNESS, which has never failed.

Wife Must Stand First in Husband's Heart

Easy for Average Man to Make Average Woman Happy After Marriage by a Little Tact and Attention Which Is Her Due

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

Copyright, 1915, by the Blue Ocean Company.

UNLESS a woman is utterly devoid of reason and good sense, it is the simplest of matters for the man who loves to make her happy after marriage.

A little tact, a little self-denial, a little patience, much consideration, many small attentions and unfeigned kindness will keep the average woman as happy as her days are long.

But in spite of the simplicity of the undertaking, the world is filled with domestic failures; and the discontented and disappointed wives seem to outnumber the satisfied ones.

Most men begin married life with more real love in their hearts than most women bestow upon their husbands; yet, after a few years of domestic life it is the woman who gives, and the man who seems to fall in bestowing the proofs of affection which are so necessary to the happiness of most women.

The leading desire of a woman's heart is to feel always, and under all circumstances, that she is first in her husband's thoughts.

The next desire is to feel that he likes to be with her; that he enjoys her society, and that he comes to her joyfully, and goes from her regretfully, even as in the days of courtship.

It is just in these two matters that so many men fail.

Most decent men give their wives dutiful attentions. They provide for their wants, and are anxious to have them entertained; but too frequently they are satisfied to provide amusement and entertainment which does not necessitate their personal participation.

A woman who had received an expensive New Year gift was, nevertheless, made unhappy by having her husband sit in an absent-minded manner through the dinner hour with friends, and to hear him ask to be excused as soon as decency allowed, and to see him hurry away to watch the old year out and the new in at his club.

Her unhappiness over this incident seemed unreasonable to him; yet had he given her that hour of his undivided attention and shown pleasure in having her at his side as the New Year came in, he could have finished the night with his club and left no scarring memory on the heart of the woman he had chosen from the world to be his companion.

It required only a little self-denial and a little tact to make this one wife happy.

Unless a woman is obsessed by the demon of jealousy, which makes her incapable of sane reasoning and good judgment, she does not object to having her husband show other women ardent attention. She is, indeed, proud of him when other women admire him and find his society agreeable.

But in order for any woman to take this view of life, the man must be tender and tactful enough to make his wife feel ALWAYS that she stands first in his heart.

He must look in her eyes when she is talking to him; not past her to gaze at some other; he must see her when she enters a room, and come to meet her; he must not forget her presence and sit or stand with his back to while he entertains some other woman; and he must be so ready and quick to praise his wife as he is to praise others.

When a man springs quickly to the defense of another woman, who is criticized in any manner, and at the same time is prone to think his own wife needs criticism, he must not be surprised if she exhibits what is commonly called "Jealousy."

The tactful man can and will avoid such situations by keeping his wife confident of her power to charm and please him; and when ever he goes from her presence he will make her feel that he goes regretfully.

There are men who treat their wives as goodhearted boys treat their mothers when they first develop into young manhood.

A husband of this type tries to do his duty by his wife; he looks after her comforts; he cares that she has some one to help her pass the time; he gets theatre tickets for her and her friends, and then he joyfully hurries away to find his own pleasures, just as the boy hurries off to his comrades and his girl friends after being sure that he has neglected no duty toward his mother.

But while the mother is satisfied with this kind of attention the wife is not — not unless she has ceased to care for her husband other than as a provider for her physical comforts, and unless also, too, has other pleasures more congenial than her husband's society affords.

A woman who possessed every earthly blessing was envied by her friends because her husband came to her directly after business hours with some plan for her entertainment, and seemed always solicitous about having her enjoy herself with other people.

Yet he found all his pleasures at the club or in entertainments apart from her. When she complained to him that she felt lonely and disappointed with her life, he thought her most unreasonable and unappreciative of a good husband.

Did he not do his duty better than most men of her acquaintance? He could not understand that. A quiet evening at home, where he seemed to be happy and contented because he was with her, would have meant more to her than all the pleasures he provided for during the week.

Alas, when it takes SO LITTLE to make a woman happy (a loving and reasonable woman, how needlessly and it seems that so many women are unhappy.

Scientists Abandon Nebular Hypothesis

By EDGAR LUCIEN LARKIN

I HAVE answered many questions in regard to the nebular hypothesis, but still they come. Here is another one from San Francisco:

"I recently read that Professor Campbell of the Lick Observatory had refuted the nebular hypothesis, stating that stars (suns) were not evolved from planetary nebulae — that stars (suns) came first, this having been demonstrated by the speed of the suns—the older the star the swifter its motion. I should like to ask the following questions:

"1. How did the sun first come into existence?

"2. In the earth a part of the sun, thrown off into space, gradually cooling?"

"3. Do you think it possible that the universe was created by electricity (electricity) — electricity forming atoms and atoms forming matter, the formation of all which being directed by the Master Mind?"

The nebular hypothesis of La Place has been abandoned in favor of the nebular hypothesis of Lockyer and plantelism hypothesis of Chamberlain. All suns, planets and moons, by these two nearly identical theories, were made by the "falling in" from space of small cometary bodies, such as the meteors now falling on the earth.

Trillions of years ago there was a meteor moving in space. It is now in the centre of the earth. Another meteor joined this by collision; then another; and this falling in is now going on at a vastly diminished rate, so that comparatively few are now coming in, so may be seen on almost any clear night.

2. No; the earth never was a part of the sun.

3. My "past" theory, so-called by hundreds of my correspondents within four years, is that mind created electrons. And the latter came in so many languages from so many parts of the world that I can translate the word "past" only. Then electrons either formed in the entire universe, or were directed by a mighty knowledge from without.

Since I first published this four years ago I have thought of every possible phase of the problem. I here assert and state that electrons knew when, where and how to wheel themselves into atoms of matter of their own volition and most astonishing wisdom, or are directed by an incredibly wise external force.

All of my publications since advocate directivity. The external force, successively my director I have called mind, and have used the word mental, now incorporated in many foreign languages as written—mentals—the most important word now confronting man.

From the American Fancier we glean the following interesting notes of the life history of the duck.

It takes four weeks of profound uncertainty to hatch ducks after which they proceed to grow up, seasonally, in the following order: (1) their bills, (2) their feet, (3) the duck proper.

If anything had been created to vain, ducks would prove that it wasn't by eating it.

Each shining hour seems to be plenty good enough, just as it stands, for ducks, for as often as they catch the busy little bee improving it they swallow him on the spot.

The duck never lays a golden egg, being no such goose. Come, birdsie, come.
